About this preview

This free sampler gives you a real look inside The 52-Week Business Planner: the opening pages, the Phase 1 introduction, and two complete weeks.

You will see Week 1, a regular week, and Week 4, an Integration Week, so you can feel the rhythm of three forward weeks followed by one week to catch up and rest.

THE FULL BOOK HAS

- + 288 pages, 6 x 9 in, undated: start any week of the year
- + 52 weeks in four phases: Foundation, Creation, Launch and Momentum
- + My Real Week calendar for work, family and appointments
- + One milestone and two supporting tasks each week
- + 15-minute micro-sprints and HIGH or LOW energy task tags
- + Daily check-ins, weekly wrap-ups, mindset and wellness prompts
- + Year-in-review, wins log, people page and notes pages

Print it, or use it on screen.

Some pages are designed to be written on by hand, so the printed book is the best way to use them.

Welcome. Start small.

You have a job, people who count on you, and a calendar that already feels full. You also have an idea, a skill or a quiet pull toward something of your own. This planner exists for people exactly like you.

Over 52 weeks, you will move from “maybe someday” to a real, working business, one small step at a time. Nothing here asks you to quit your job, work at midnight or give up your weekends. Every week is sized for a person who has limited hours, and every fourth week is an Integration Week, a pause to catch up, rest and celebrate.

You will not need to be perfect. You will need to show up for a little while, most weeks, and keep going when a week goes sideways, because some weeks will. The planner is built for that too.

Use the My Real Week calendar to put your actual life on the page first. A plan that respects your real schedule is a plan you can keep.

Focus. Plan. Results.

How this planner works

+ The 3+1 rhythm

Three forward weeks, then one Integration Week. The fourth week has no new lessons: you finish what is open, rest on purpose and look back.

+ The Rule of Three

Each week has one main milestone and two supporting tasks. If that is all you finish, it was a good week.

+ 15-minute micro-sprints

Short, specific actions for the gaps in your day: a commute, a lunch break, the ten minutes before dinner.

+ Energy tags

HIGH ENERGY tasks need a clear head, so give them your best hour. LOW ENERGY tasks can happen when you are tired.

+ My Real Week

Every week begins with your actual calendar: work, family and appointments first, business windows second. You plan around your life, not instead of it.

+ Daily Check-Ins

One 20-minute Needle-Mover a day, an energy rating and a grounding habit. Missed a day? Skip it without guilt and pick up the next one.

+ Weekly Wrap-Up

Five minutes to see what worked, what to simplify and how you feel. This is where the learning happens.

EVERY WEEK, FIVE PAGES

1 Learn	Coach's note and worksheet
2 Weekly Kickoff	Milestone, tasks and micro-sprints
3 My Real Week	Your calendar and business windows
4 Daily Check-Ins	Seven small steps
5 Weekly Wrap-Up	Reflect, rest and preview next week

Your real capacity

Be honest, not heroic. A smaller number you keep beats a bigger number you drop.

Hours my job takes in a typical week, including commute _____

Hours for family, caregiving and household _____

Hours for sleep, meals and basic care _____

Hours for fixed commitments (appointments, classes, volunteering) _____

Hours left over in a typical week _____

My honest business hours per week: _____

Of these, hours that are HIGH energy: _____

My best times of day for focused work are...

The people I need to tell about this plan, so they can support my windows...

What I am willing to say no to, so these hours stay protected...

My minimum week (the least I will do on my worst week) looks like...

Phase checkpoints at Weeks 13, 26, 39 and 52: decide what to keep, change or stop.

PHASE 1

Foundation

Weeks 1–13 · Discovery, strategy, routine building

You will not build anything yet. You will learn who you want to help, what they need and how much time you really have.

BY THE END OF THIS PHASE I WILL HAVE

- ☐ Know my real capacity and write my Why
- ☐ Listen to real people and find the patterns
- ☐ Write a one-sentence offer and decide: go, refine or pivot

WHAT THIS PHASE ASKS OF ME

About ____ hours a week, mostly in my planned windows, and one Integration Week out of every four.

Before I begin this phase

Where am I starting from right now?

What am I most excited about?

What am I most worried about, and what would help?

Who can support me in this phase (a friend, a mentor, a family member)?

What changes in my regular life will I need to plan for (busy season, travel, family events)?

My confidence right now, 1 to 5:

☐ 1 ☐ 2 ☐ 3 ☐ 4 ☐ 5

WEEK 1 OF 52

Start Where You Are

COACH'S NOTE

Welcome, and congratulations on beginning. You decided to build something while holding down a full-time job and a full life. That is not an obstacle to work around. It is the design brief for this whole planner.

Here is how the year works. Three weeks of forward motion, then one Integration Week to rest, catch up and refine. Each week you will have one main milestone and two supporting tasks, plus 15-minute micro-sprints for the small gaps in your day. You will never be asked to find hours you do not have.

This week we build nothing. We lay the ground: why you are doing this, how much time and energy you honestly have, and what your wellbeing needs so the business never costs you your health. A foundation that fits your real life is one you can stand on for a year. Start where you are.

Your Why

I want to build a business because...

If this works, one thing in my life will be different:

My Why in one sentence (we will return to it in every Integration Week):

Capacity Snapshot

Realistic hours for my business each week:

My best high-energy windows:

- ☐ Early morning ☐ Lunch break
☐ After work ☐ Weekend morning
☐ Weekend afternoon

My low-energy pockets (commute, waiting, couch time):

Wellness baseline – sleep (hrs/night) | movement (days/week):

Stress level today (1 = calm, 5 = overloaded):

(1) (2) (3) (4) (5)

WEEK 1 OF 52 · START WHERE YOU ARE

WEEKLY KICKOFF

THE RULE OF THREE: 1 MILESTONE + 2 SUPPORTING TASKS

MAIN MILESTONE

HIGH ENERGY

Write your Why and complete your Capacity Snapshot.Done when: you have a one-sentence Why and you know your honest weekly hours.

About 40 minutes, in two 20-minute sessions.

TWO SUPPORTING TASKS

LOW ENERGY

15 min

Create your Business Home: one folder, notebook or app where everything lives.

HIGH ENERGY

20 min

Tell one supportive person you have started, and ask them to check in with you in a month.

PREDICT THE OBSTACLE

What is most likely to get in the way this week?My plan if it does:Example: work runs late Wednesday → I will take a 15-minute sprint at lunch on Thursday.*

SET A WELLNESS BOUNDARY

This week I will protect:Examples: no business work after 9 p.m. · one full evening off · lights out by 11.

15-MINUTE MICRO-SPRINTS · TICK ONE OFF WHEN YOU DO IT

On your commute or in line, type a first draft of your Why into your phone.

While your coffee brews, list five things people thank you for.

Spend 15 minutes looking at a small business you admire. Note one thing you like about it.

CAPTURE BOX

Ideas, questions, people to contact, things to look up. Park them here and return to your plan.

WEEKLY WRAP-UP

Five minutes, a pen and honesty. No wrong answers.

1 Progress. Did I reach my main milestone?

☐ Yes ☐ Partly ☐ Not yet

What helped? What got in the way?

2 Mindset. What story did my mind tell me this week about whether I am “ready” or “qualified”? What is a kinder, truer version?

3 Efficiency. Which time window worked best for me this week? What can I simplify or let go of?

4 Three wins, however small:

5 Real week check. Did my commitments fit what I planned? What will I change on next week's calendar?

6 Wellness check.

Boundary kept? ☐ Yes ☐ Mostly ☐ Not this week

Energy overall this week: (1) (2) (3) (4) (5)

Next week: Week 2 · Build Your Business Rhythm. You will choose your two weekly business windows and plan a “minimum week” for the busy days.

You started. That is the whole job this week. Well done.

WEEK 4 OF 52

INTEGRATION WEEK · NO NEW LESSONS

Pause, Catch Up, Celebrate

COACH'S NOTE

This is your first Integration Week, and it may be the most important one so far. There is nothing new to learn. Instead, you have permission to do three things: finish what is unfinished, refine what you have started, and rest on purpose.

Rest is not a reward for finishing everything. It is part of the work. Tired people make rushed decisions, and you have a long, steady year ahead. If you are behind, that is information, not failure. If you are ahead, resist the urge to add more, and use the time to breathe.

Look back gently this week. Notice how your energy and wellbeing have changed since Week 1, what is working, and what feels heavy, and adjust. Next week we turn toward the people you want to help. For now: catch up, refine, rest.

Month-One Catch-Up

Week 1 · Start Where You Are

Your Why and Capacity Snapshot

☐ Done ☐ Partly ☐ Skipped

Week 2 · Build Your Business Rhythm

Two business windows and a "minimum week" plan

☐ Done ☐ Partly ☐ Skipped

Week 3 · Idea Inventory

Skills, interests and problems mapped; up to three ideas shortlisted

☐ Done ☐ Partly ☐ Skipped

The ONE I will finish this week:

Look Back, Gently

What is working?

What feels heavy?

What am I proud of?

Wellness now vs. Week 1 – sleep | movement | stress (1–5):

WEEK 4 OF 52 · PAUSE, CATCH UP, CELEBRATE

WEEKLY KICKOFF

THE RULE OF THREE: 1 MILESTONE + 2 SUPPORTING TASKS

MAIN MILESTONE

HIGH ENERGY

Finish one unfinished milestone from Weeks 1–3.Done when: one loose end is tied up. That is enough.

Up to 40 minutes, spread across the week. Less is fine.

TWO SUPPORTING TASKS

☐ LOW ENERGY 15 min

Refine one thing: reread your Why from Week 1 and change one word so it sounds more like you.

☐ LOW ENERGY 10 min

Schedule one real rest that is only for you, with a day and time on your calendar.

PREDICT THE OBSTACLE

What might tempt me to skip rest this week?My plan if it does:

SET A WELLNESS BOUNDARY

This week I will protect:Examples: one business-free day · no screens after 9 p.m. · a long walk.

15-MINUTE MICRO-SPRINTS · TICK ONE OFF WHEN YOU DO IT

☐ Spend 15 minutes tidying your Business Home.☐ Read something for pleasure, not for business.☐ Text a friend you have neglected while you have been building.
